Message from the Director

I am pleased to share with you the 2010 Indian Health Service (IHS) Director's Award Program. The IHS Director's Awards are an opportunity to recognize individuals who have performed extraordinary work in furthering the IHS mission to raise the health status of American Indian and Alaska Native people to the highest possible level and who have helped us make progress on our agency priorities. The IHS Director's Award Program acknowledges and highlights the many extraordinary accomplishments of our Agency's talented and dedicated workforce. All Indian Health Service (IHS), Tribal and Urban Indian health program employees use this opportunity to recognize deserving individuals. The Director's Awards offer a chance for us to reflect on what we are doing well in Indian Health Service and to honor those that are truly going above and beyond the call of duty to support our organization.

It was a pleasure and an honor to select these dedicated and deserving awardees for the IHS Director Awards. I found it incredibly uplifting to read the award nominations, and very challenging to select the award recipients. These awards represented accomplishments in the year 2010, and were awarded at a ceremony in June, 2011 in Washington, D.C.

In addition to the regular IHS Director's Awards that give national recognition for outstanding work by individuals and groups, we created the IHS Director's Special Recognition Awards to honor those who partner with us and who have demonstrated extraordinary achievements in public health leadership, Federal leadership, and organizational leadership. We have also created a very important new award - the IHS Director's Award for Customer Service. As you may know, customer service is a top agency priority and we are honoring those who have been noticed by their fellow employees and our patients for their outstanding customer service.

The Luana Reyes Leadership Award continues to be presented to an individual who reflects the values and characteristics of a future leader that were so apparent in the great leader for whom the award is named.

As we work to change and improve the IHS, we need to take time to honor individuals and groups who make outstanding contributions. They are all further proof that the IHS has the most dedicated employees in the federal government who demonstrate time and again their devotion to our mission and their determination to end health disparities and health care inequities among American Indian and Alaska Native people. I encourage you to review the accomplishments of each awardee in this Program and to begin thinking of deserving individuals and groups to nominate for the 2011 awards.

Congratulations to all the 2010 IHS Director's Award winners!

Special Recognition Awards

Federal Partnership

Mary K. Wakefield, Ph.D., R.N.
Administrator, Health Resources and Services Administration
